

SEVERE WEATHER TALK

2018

YOU ARE WELCOME

Every year, the National Weather Service (NWS) in Topeka presents severe weather safety and information talks which are FREE and open to the general public.

The talk is presented by meteorologists from the NWS office in Topeka and will focus on severe storm safety, preparedness, and awareness.

Storm structure and accurate identification of important cloud features associated with super cell and squall line thunderstorms will also be touched on.

TIME: 7:00 PM
DATE: MARCH 5TH

Washburn University Memorial Union

PARTNERS

